MINE WALKOUT SPREADING AS LEWIS MAINTAINS SILENCE

PROSPECT FOR PEACE TREATY ACCORD SEEN

Great Power Foreign Ministers Score Progress in Breaking Deadlock Over Issue

MAIN DEVELOPMENTS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
New York, Nov. 19.—(P)—Spurred by Russian concessions, the great power foreign ministers scored major progress today in breaking their long peace-treaty deadlock on control of Trieste.

But they evidently were headed for trouble over proposals to restrict voluntarily the use of the veto in the United Nations Security Council.

A series of swift-moving developments yesterday and last night brought the brightest prospects yet for early and final agreement on the Italian and other former German satellite peace treaties. But simultaneously dimmed the outlook for any substantial agreements by Russia on the veto issue.

The main developments were these:

1. In a Big Four meeting last night (America, Britain, Russia and France) Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov finally yielded to American-British insistence that the proposed free territory of Trieste should be under a United Nations governor armed with strong powers to protect its independence.

In an earlier big five meeting (the Big Four plus China) Molotov, after some objection, agreed to consider proposals for voluntarily restricting use of the veto and to discuss them in future big-five meetings.

3. Lake Success, L. I., a committee of the U. N. assembly indirectly approved this procedure by voting 38 to 6 to sidestep its own veto debate until the foreign ministers had time to act. However, a Soviet spokesman told the committee his government was fully opposed to any changes in the veto system and objected to all assembly proposals aimed at modifying it.

4. Diplomatic authorities interpreted this as meaning that Molotov probably would reject all big five suggestions for voluntarily restricting use of the veto, although he might go along with some British-American and Chinese recommendations aimed not so much at the veto as at speeding up the work of the Security Council.

The next meeting of the Big Four on the Italian peace treaty and Trieste is scheduled for 4 P. M. (E. S. T.) tomorrow. Another Big Five discussion of the veto was supposed to have been held at 11 A. M. today, but was cancelled last night because it conflicted with the time set for a formal session of the United Nations assembly.

Fairmont, W. Va., Nov. 19.—(P)—Thirty pupils were injured, one critically and 20 escaped with only minor injuries today when a school bus plunged over a 35-foot embankment near Arnettsville, Monongalia county.

Twenty three of the youngsters, ranging from 11 to 16 years of age, were treated at Fairmont General Hospital and dismissed. Jean Michael of Hagans, Monongalia county, suffered a broken neck in the accident and was reported in a critical condition. Six other companions were held in the hospital for observation.

The bus had picked up the pupils for transportation to school at Arnettsville and Everettville, Monongalia county.

The bus turned over and landed on its top, spilling some of the students along the embankment, witnesses said.

Award Contract For Altering Rooms In East Street Building

The school board held an adjourned meeting at 4:30 P. M. Monday at the high school building for the purpose of receiving bids for the rehabilitation of five rooms in the East Street building.

Only one bid was received on the general contract, that of Ludwig Peterson, in the amount of $5,110, and he was awarded the contract. Three bids were received on the electrical contract, the lowest of which was offered by C. Beckley, Inc., for $1,545. The other bids were offered by Harrisburg and Philadelphia firms and were considered ridiculously high.

Work on this project is supposed to be finished by January 4, 1947, when the holiday vacation period is terminated.

Other matters taken up by the board Monday afternoon included pre-payment of premiums on group life insurance, covering all full-time employees, this amount being $3,259.62.

Glittering Prohibition Years And Boom Days of Wall St. Recalled By Walker's Death

New York, Nov. 19.—(P)—James J. (Jimmy) Walker, mayor of New York City during the glittering days of the prohibition era, the Wall Street boom and night club palor, is dead at 65.

Death came painlessly last night to the debonair, slender, little man with the rapier wit, who had come to epitomize New York sophistication of the get-rich-quick years before the depression.

He never awakened from the coma into which he lapsed shortly after being taken to Doctors Hospital early Sunday suffering from a brain clot. The last rites of the Catholic Church were administered soon after his admittance to the hospital.

Walker, mayor from 1926 to 1932 and last link between the plush and gilt New York of Tammany turkey baskets and torch-light parades, and the modern metropolis, had been in ill health for the last two weeks, complaining of severe headaches.

At his bedside when he died were his sister, Mrs. Nan Burke, her two sons, Luke and Paul, and another nephew, William Walker, Jr. Walker's two adopted children, James J. Jr., 10, and Mary Ann, 12, were at the Burke apartment.

Funeral services will be at St. Patrick's Cathedral on Thursday morning. Friends said private burial services would be held at the Gate of Heaven cemetery in Pleasantville, N. Y.

The man who latter was to be hailed as the typical New Yorker and to become one of the most widely known men in the world was born in the Greenwich Village section of the city, the son of an Irish immigrant father with a hankering for politics.

In 1899 the younger Walker was asked to replace his father in the state assembly, where he became during 15 years the protégé of another assemblyman—Alfred E. Smith.

After a career as lawyer and state assemblyman and senator, Walker defeated Mayor John F. (Red Mike) Hylan for the Democratic mayoralty nomination in 1925 and was swept into office by a 439,125 margin over Frank D. Waterman, Republican nominee.

"Let me through, fellows, I want to work," was Walker's cry the first morning he entered city hall as mayor on Jan. 1, 1926.

He was re-elected in 1929, defeating Giovanni La Guardia, out of office during the Seabury investigation, which accused him of mispractices in office and demanded his removal.

Walker went on trial for his political life before the then Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in August, 1932, and two weeks later resigned from office. He spent the next few years in Europe.

In 1940, Mayor La Guardia appointed Walker impartial chairman of the city's cloak industry at $20,000 a year. He quit this position to become head of the Justice Records, Inc., on February 13, 1945.

Outside the assembly building, three special flagpoles were erected in the center of the circle where the flag of the original 51 members fly. A special detachment of the United States marines was assigned the task of hoisting the three new banners.

New York, Nov. 19.—(P)—President Truman has commuted to 10 years imprisonment for desertion the death sentence imposed on Pvt. Francis R. Wallrath, 21-year-old combat veteran, says the soldier's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wallrath of Long Island City.

Minersville, Nov. 19.—(P)—Four hundred and fifty miners at the Oak Hill colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company near here walked out today in a jurisdictional dispute.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19.—(P)—The immediate enactment of anti-smoke ordinances in Allegheny county received a setback last night when officials of 24 municipalities voted to support any law which excludes the regulation of locomotive smoke.

Athens, Nov. 19.—(P)—Guerrilla forces have wrested control of 100 of the 104 villages in the Grevena region of western Macedonia, about 80 miles southwest of the Greek-Yugoslav border area where a large-scale battle raged last week.

Work on this project is supposed to be finished by January 4, 1947, when the holiday vacation period is terminated.

Other matters taken up by the board Monday afternoon included pre-payment of premiums on group life insurance, covering all full-time employees, this amount being $3,259.62.

A recommendation was received from the committee on textbooks and supplies dealing with supplemental materials amounting to approximately $440.

STOPPAGE IN COAL FIELDS ON INCREASE

Number of Idle in Industry Resulting From "Vacations" Is Nearing the 500 Mark

SHUTDOWN PREDICTED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19.—(P)—More thousands of miners left the pits today in scattered work stoppages which began yesterday in the soft coal fields.

Approximately 58,000 men were reported out today in contrast with 38,000 yesterday.

The stoppages spread despite a federal court order issued in Washington against a strike.

The score of idle miners in the large producing states stood: Alabama 16,000; Illinois 17,000; Pennsylvania 10,000; West Virginia 10,000; Virginia 1,600; Kentucky 3,000, and Indiana 650.

Most of those who left their jobs this morning were in Alabama, where 16,000 of the state's 20,000 miners were idle, suspending 60 out of 84 Alabama mines. Yesterday only 3,000 stopped work in that state.

As in the case of the idleness at pits in several other states, there was no formal reason given by the union or the operators in Alabama for the walkouts.

John L. Lewis, president of the AFL-United Mine Workers, has notified the government that the union's contract with the government expires Wednesday midnight.

Among the mines closed today were two captive pits of the U. S. Steel Corporation. A company spokesman reported these were the Bridgeport mine, near Brownsville, with more than 800 workers, and the Hazel Mine at Canonsburg, with 111 workers.

Some unionists predicted a complete shutdown would occur Thursday if the miners follow their traditional "no contract no work" contention.

Even as the shaggy mine chief, facing a possible jail sentence for violating the government's anti-strike injunction, it appeared the miners would follow their time-honored maxim, "no contract, no work."

In Harrisburg, William H. Chesnut, state secretary of labor and industry, withheld comment on the possibility of soft coal miners who have left their jobs in the present situation receiving unemployment compensation because "there is nothing before me" in the nature of claims.

Chesnut explained he is unable to say anything until actual claims for jobless benefits are filed and he knows all the facts.

"We'll see you in five weeks," was the ominous word of miners at the Montour 10 at Liberty, Pa., as they filed out of an afternoon shift yesterday.

James Caspar, a track layer, at the Westland mine, summed up the miners' reaction to the strike injunction with:

"They can't do anything to a man for not coming to work when he doesn't want to. Not in this country, they can't."

Lewis' grip on the coal diggers was illustrated at the Westland mine Monday when 600 miners reported as usual. But as the men drew their lamps, the query rippled through the crowd:

"Are you or aren't you for Lewis?"

The men turned in their lamps, poured the water from their pails and went home.

Assemblymen To Caucus Saturday

Harrisburg, Nov. 19.—(P)—A call went out today to the 171 Republican representatives in the 1947 general assembly for a caucus here on Saturday, Nov. 20, to select a speaker and majority floor leader for the session opening on Jan. 7.

Mrs. Janice Pollock, 24, chosen "Mrs. America" in a nationwide contest at Jackson, Miss., is still trying to decide whether to retain the title, along with the money and modeling job involved, or give them up to stay home at Columbus, O., with her family. She's pictured here with her husband, Mark, and her children, left to right: Tommy, 5; Bobby, 10 months; Susan, 6; and Mark, Jr., 2.

Livestock Prices Slightly Below O. P. A. Ceiling Peaks

Chicago, Nov. 19.—(P)—Prices which farmers received for livestock today, at the start of the sixth week of decontrolled markets, were only slightly under peaks established immediately after ceilings were removed.

Other results of free trading include more meat, a coin-hog price relationship favorable for expanding the hog population, record numbers of cattle moving into mid-western feed lots and increased cold storage meat holdings.

Five weeks ago today maximums went off livestock and meat, and, excluding Sundays, the nation has had 20 days of free trading with these results:

1. A high of $37.60 paid for live cattle yesterday at Chicago equaled the last price on record for steers, top on live hogs was $24.75 against a peak of $27.30 shortly after decontrol.

These prices were well above former OPA ceilings of $20.35 on cattle and $16.25 on hogs. In addition there was a subsidy of 50 cents to $2.40 on cattle and $1.75 on hogs.

2. Livestock receipts and meat supplies are much larger than in the period before decontrol. Cattle slaughter under federal inspection in October was up 207 percent over September and hog slaughter 611 percent.

3. Record numbers of stocker and feeder cattle have moved into mid-western feed lots, where they are being fed for later marketing as choice beef. The agriculture department said shipments of such cattle into the corn belt in October exceeded any month on record.

4. Meat prices are lower than immediately after decontrol, but far above former ceilings. Choice dressed beef carcasses weighing 500 to 600 pounds at New York yesterday brought $45.00 to $46.00. Immediately after decontrol the price was $59.67. Ceiling was $36.18.

Choice pork loins weighing 8 to 10 pounds yesterday sold for $52.00 to $53.00 compared with $56.58 after decontrol and a ceiling of $51.88. With both beef and pork, the market prices are lower than the quantities for which sold above ceiling prices in the black market.

Porter Against Increases In Rent Ceilings

Washington, Nov. 19.—(P)—A high OPA official said today that Paul Porter has taken a strong stand against any general rent ceiling increase at this time or any basic change in present standards for permitting rent adjustments.

This official said the price administrator is "strongly opposed" to any such changes and has informed representatives of the real estate business that OPA intends to hold the present rent line.

Porter advised the business spokesmen further, the official said, that any major changes will have to be made by congress.

At the same time, however, it was disclosed that OPA is considering a plan of take rent ceilings off transient hotel rooms and may act "very soon" if a workable definition of transient rooms can be established. Any such definition, this informant said, must provide for retention of rent ceilings on rooms held by permanent hotel guests.

The official conceded that present OPA policy on rents could be reversed by the White House or by the head of a proposed new agency which will take over the functions of OPA, the Civilian Production Administration and one or two smaller agencies, perhaps within the next week.

PRESIDENT READY TO SPEED BACK TO WASHINGTON FROM SOUTH IF NEEDED IN CRISIS

Union Chief Playing Quiet Hand on Question of Obeying Federal Court Order Against Strike Heralded to Begin Wednesday

MORE THAN 38,000 DIGGERS LAY DOWN TOOLS

By the Associated Press
John L. Lewis, silent on federal court's no-strike order, faces a possible jail term if he refuses to obey.

Over 38,000 soft coal diggers are reported idle in seven states as the Wednesday midnight strike deadline nears.

President Truman is ready to speed back to Washington from a Florida vacation if needed in the developing crisis. An aide replies "I don't know" on the question of troops being sent to the mines.

Washington, Nov. 19.—(P)—With less than 48 hours to go, John L. Lewis played a silent hand today on the question of obeying a federal court order against another strike heralded to begin at midnight Wednesday.

Disobedience could land the United Mine Workers' chief in jail—indeed, for contempt of court.

Already, more than 38,000 soft coal diggers have laid down their tools in seven states, and predictions of widespread industrial paralysis were heard on all sides.

Vacationing in Key West, Fla., President Truman kept in touch with the crisis and emphasized that he is determined to "fight this pressed at."

Asked if troops might be sent to the mines, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, replied: "I don't know."

Ross said, however, that "the president is aware of everything that is being done, and everything that is being done is in accordance with his instructions."

Ross disclosed that Mr. Truman specifically instructed Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug to obtain yesterday's federal court order restraining Lewis until Nov. 27 from "encouraging, instigating, inducing or encouraging the miners to strike—either directly or indirectly—or otherwise to breach his contract with the government."

The court order, signed by Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, in effect calls upon Lewis and his 400,000 miners to keep the pits operating for at least eight more days. Then, a week from tomorrow, a hearing will be held to determine whether an injunction shall be issued outlawing any strike as long as the government operates the mines.

Attorney General Clark signaled his strategy when applying for the order for Krug. He cited the famous case of Eugene V. Debs, who led the Chicago Pullman strike in 1894 and was sent to jail for six months for contempt of court in violating an anti-strike injunction.

It is a question, however, whether Lewis could be held in contempt if the miners just quit without any word or counsel from him.

These lawyers said Lewis would probably challenge Judge Goldsborough's restraining order as a violation of the Norris-LaGuardia act, which outlaws use of the injunction to prevent strikes.

The government, however, contends that the Norris-LaGuardia act does not apply in the present controversy because "the sovereign"—the government—"can at no time be held to be engaged in a labor dispute with private persons."

Lewis went into conference with his attorney immediately after two deputy U. S. marshals served the restraining order on him at 2:15 P. M. yesterday in his spacious United Mine Workers headquarters atop the plush old University Club building.

All Bids For Pipe Lines Are Rejected

Washington, Nov. 19.—(P)—War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn said today he has rejected all 16 bids to purchase the E. G. Inch and Little B. G. Inch pipe lines.

He told the special house committee investigating surplus property disposal that none of the bids submitted by gas companies, which approached the $113,700,000 value which war assets appraisers have placed on the two war-built pipe lines from Texas to the east coast.

Littlejohn said the companies and syndicates interested in purchasing the pipe lines will be invited to submit informal new bids within a few days.

Bradford In Gay Mood For Diamond Anniversary Of Oil

Bradford, Nov. 19.—(P)—This northwestern Pennsylvania city was in gay mood and gala attire today as it celebrated the 75th anniversary of the discovery of oil in the Bradford field.

The week's observance got underway last night. Main street glittered with Christmas lights and shop windows featured pictures of the city's past, entwined with the history and development of oil in this area. On top of the Emory Hotel glittered a huge golden "75," symbolic of the diamond jubilee.

Dr. Paul H. Giddens, curator of the Drake Museum at Titusville, spoke at a dinner given by the city's four service organizations—Kiwanis, Rotary, Exchange and Y's men—reviewing the history of the oil industry.

Dr. Giddens, who is professor of history at Allegheny College, declared the United States might well have lost its foreign market to Russia had it not been for the opening of the Bradford field in 1871. The bountiful production in this field, he said, resulted in lower prices and enabled the U. S. to maintain its markets. The Bradford field originally fueled all of the U. S. and Europe. Dr. Giddens declared.

Mayor Hugh J. Ryan told of Bradford's growth from its settlement in 1833 to its incorporation as a city in 1879.

Tonight the Producers' Association gives a dinner for district oilmen at the Valley Hunt Country Club.

A parade featuring 18 historical floats will be held tomorrow. On Thursday an old timers' "oyster bar" supper will be served at the Bradford Club.

Warming Fires Started By Hunters Worry Fire Crews

Warming fires started in the woods by hunters on the first day of the bear season gave the fire crews of the district some hard work yesterday. Hunters chilled by the cold winds start fires and gather around them to get warm and then walk away and leave the fires burning. The rising smoke was reported from nearly every fire tower to the district and the fire fighting crews were kept on the jump.

One fire was found on the Kinzua creek which had been built over a big log and it was blazing when the fire crew got to the scene and checked it from getting into leaves.

Attention was called by the fire crew head to the fact that the frost heaves up the leaves and the cold wind and sun dry them and a potential fire is at hand. A low ground wind has also been blowing and danger of forest fires is great.

Warning is given that starting of a fire without a permit on forest land is strictly against the law and any person found making a warming fire on forest lands without a permit will be arrested and fined.

Class Initiation Will Attract Large Crowd to Moose Meet

Tomorrow evening the Moose Home on Hickory street will be about the busiest place in Warren as on this evening the lodge will initiate a class of about 100 members. The work of signing up members has been under way for some time and the class will be initiated with all due form and ritualistic pomp.

Following the meeting which will also mark Old Timers and Past Governors night at which several of the charter members of the lodge will be in attendance, a delightful evening has been planned. There will be several features at the meeting and the memory of Governor George Wertman, who recently passed away will be marked and a eulogy delivered.

Dinner will be served to all in attendance at 10 o'clock and a floor show and other entertainment features enjoyed.

A turkey party has also been planned and the whole evening promises to be a most interesting and happy one.

Six Bear In Co. Checked By Game Officer

Game Protector George Norris and other officers stationed at strategic points on the highways leading out of the woods yesterday checked on six bears that were killed in the first day's hunting. There may be others that are hung up in camps and have not been brought out yet.

The Kinzua area seems to have been the best spot for the hunters and at least two of the bears reported were shot there. Theodore Heckathorne, of Oil City, got the biggest bear of the day. It was really the daddy of all bears and weighed 415 pounds. Mr. Heckathorne got the bear about eight o'clock near Kinzua while the big fellow was ambling through a clump of woods. He promptly loaded in his car and left for home with his bear hunting done for another season.

It has been reported that several of the animals were shot in the Heart's Content area and one or two on Hickory creek. However, these are not officially checked as yet.

One hunter yesterday cut loose with his high powered rifle, presumably taking a shot at a bear and the bullet pinged into one of the supports at the Heart's Content fire tower.

Early this morning many cars filled with hunters rolled out for the bear haunts and from indications the kill this season will be greater than last.

PRICES COMING DOWNWARD
Refusal of housewives to pay the high prices that followed the removal of controls from many items have been reflected in the prices being asked for commodities about the stores of the city. Butter was quoted today at 83 cents, a drop of two cents and eggs dropped to 83 cents in many of the stores. Meat prices are also reaching new low levels and other articles are also reflecting the opening of competition in various lines.

NAVY SCHOLARSHIP
John E. Borne, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian F. Borne, 1411 Pennsylvania avenue, has been selected for training in the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps at Pennsylvania State College. The NROTC program includes a four-year education of the candidate's choice, with all expenses paid and an allowance of $600 a year. After he receives his degree, he will be commissioned an officer in either the U. S. Navy or Marine Corps, and will serve on active duty for two years.

In January, 1947, another nationwide competitive examination for this opportunity will be offered to all high school seniors and graduates between the ages of 17 and 21. Application forms may be obtained from high school principals, college deans, or at the nearest office of naval officer procurement.

"Y" Workers Will Launch Drive Tonight

With a dinner meeting at six o'clock tonight, the Y.M.C.A. Membership Campaign will be launched with between 80 and 90 officers and team workers lined up in two divisions known as "football leagues." General Chairman W. Howard Alexander will preside.

The two "leagues" will be led by Grover Lind, head-coach of the Eastern League, and by Donald Mowell, head-coach of the Midwestern League. These two men, heading up organizations of five college teams each will compete in a six-day contest to reach, together, the goal of 600 new and renewal members set for the campaign, which is slated to close on Monday, the 25th.

Tonight's session will round-out the organizational phases of the contest, with instructions, prospect cards and work kits being given out. Then the teams will "hit the line" each aiming for the championship of the season. Suitable recognition is to be given high-scoring individuals, but more emphasis is being placed on team play.

It is vital to the success of the whole enterprise that the team captains rally their forces for the "kick-off" tonight, so that all men will be well-equipped for the game to follow. The captains in the membership-enrolling contest are C. A. Babcock, George Prantz, Alan Templeton, Ernest Rockhill, F. H. Hetrick, Cecil Winans, Lewis Morlock, F. A. Keller, Kenneth Middaugh and A. ## Talk On Radio Much Enjoyed By Foremen

A talk on the history of radio, musical entertainment, and a patriotic motion picture combined to make last night's meeting of the Warren Foremen's Club, held in the Y. M. C. A. building, both educational and entertaining. Seventy-five members of the club were in attendance for the program, which began with the serving of dinner at 6:30 o'clock. President Ernest H. Rockhill presided throughout.

The talk on radio was given by W. LeRoy Schneck, program director of Warren's Station WNAE, which is to be opened in the near future. Mr. Schneck sketched briefly the history of radio and radio broadcasting and then gave some interesting information regarding the local station.

Immediately after the dinner a high school instrumental quartet, three trumpets with piano accompaniment, beautifully rendered two selections which were much appreciated by the Foremen. This part of the program was in charge of Chris Pepke, who introduced the young artists. The instrumentalists were the Trumpet Trio and Miss Sally Rapp, accompanist.

The movie section of the program was in charge of "X" Secretary Ralph Wagner, who showed the film "This Is Your Money" and a reel of old-fashioned songs. The cooperation of Archie Hunter in the procuring of these films was gratefully acknowledged. These pictures were shown in lieu of a program of foremen's training films, which failed to arrive for some unknown reason.

Mr. Rockhill announced that the next dinner-meeting of the club will be held on Dec. 9, when Rev. Frank McDuffee of Jamestown will be the speaker. The Board of Governors will meet next on Dec. 16.

Police Alert For Robbers of Nearby Mill

Police of this section have been alerted for a robber band that has been operating in Butler county, and who are thought to have struck the GLF mill at Spartansburg Monday morning. They cracked the safe and got away with about $300.

The burglary at the mill was discovered by Frank Firth who opened the place for business Monday morning. The manager, Weldon Dunham, arrived shortly afterward and they notified the state police at Corry. The officers got on the job at once and are still investigating.

A rear door had been forced open by the burglars to gain entrance. The combination knob was smashed off the safe and the tumblers thrown, permitting the door to be opened. It is thought the thieves are the same crew that has been operating in Butler and adjoining counties. It is presumed the robbery took place about 3 a. m. Monday morning as a local resident reported seeing a light in the mill at that time. The mill was robbed about two and one-half years ago and quite a large sum of money was taken at that time.

A Bit About Bookplates

Personal bookplates have been used by some of the greatest of men. Among those well known to all of us were George Washington, Charles Dickens, William Penn and Paul Revere. These earlier plates were usually the design of the family crest, and the very earliest known was that of Hans Igler—Circa 1450. Bookplates show a great deal of the character of their owners and would, therefore, seem a very appropriate adornment for the life of their books. In the current art exhibit at the Warren Public Library, there are some excellent examples of such plates done by various students in the art classes at Warren High School. A few of the outstanding ones in the exhibit are: Ann Jackson's colonial bookplate; Richard Kaufman's plate, having an old German street scene design that denotes interest in travel and old northern European culture; Mona Jean Brooks' plate, suggesting a fondness for mystery stories by her tombstone design; James Zook's plate, showing his keenness for sea stories with a deep sea diver design. Among others which should not be missed are plates by Roscoe Knapp, Angelo Regina, Eargy Sulo, Dick Sharp, Lois Allen and Ronald Andersen. Everyone interested is invited to stop by and view this exhibit in the Wetmore Galleries at the Warren Public Library.

Conservatory To Present Program of Campbell Music

On Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock, the Warren Conservatory of Music will present two of its faculty members in a recital of compositions and songs written by Dr. LeRoy E. Campbell, head of the institution.

Lillian Swanson, will play several of his most widely known compositions for that instrument, and Byron Swanson, tenor, will be heard in two groups of Dr. Campbell's songs. Adelaide Swanson will play accompaniments for the vocalist.

On Saturday evening of last week, a capacity audience, with many standing in the reception room, greeted the group of singers presented in their initial vocal recital of the season. Each student was well received in his group of selections.

Guests contributing highly to the evening's success were Dorothy Bohren, pianist; Lois Sheker, contralto, of Mayville, N. Y., and Albert Elison, baritone, of Jamestown, N. Y.

Ludwick and Chase Rites Performed In Church At Lander

Lander, Nov. 18—A beautiful fall wedding took place in the Lander Methodist church Friday afternoon at three o'clock when Susan Evelyn Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Chase, Sr., of Youngville, became the bride of Myron S. Ludwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ludwick, of this place.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry Beveridge before an altar banked with palms and baskets of white chrysanthemums. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Donald Ludwick, who also accompanied Norma Miller in two vocal solos, "Allway" and "Because."

er, wore a gown of white satin fashioned with high neckline, long sleeves coming to points over her hands, and a long train. Her long net veil, edged with lace fell from her head and crown, and her bridal bouquet was of white roses, centered with a rosebud corsage. A strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, completed her outfit.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Richard Lundell, gowned in yellow taffeta, with net overskirt, and carrying yellow roses tied with matching satin ribbon. The bridesmaids were Margaret Hamlin, wearing blue taffeta and carrying pink roses tied with pink satin, and Carol Ludwick, sister of the bridegroom, wearing coral taffeta, with matching ribbons for her bouquet of Talsman roses.

Gilbert Ludwick was best man for his brother, and ushers were Charles Chase, brother of the bride, and Wendell Ludwick, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother chose a black dress with red accessories, and Mrs. Ludwick wore a wine dress and black accessories. Each had a corsage of white mums.

A reception for 70 guests followed in the community house, where a buffet lunch was served. Mrs. Wilbert Johnson, aunt of the bride, presided. Sixteen were seated at the bride's table, which was decorated with white candles and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom figures.

For a wedding trip to New York City, the bride chose a burgundy suit, black accessories, and silver muskrat coat and the rosebud corsage from her bridal bouquet. A rehearsal party was given Thursday evening by Mrs. Harry Ludwick with guests for 15 and gifts presented to the attendants.

SURPRISE PARTY
Miss Elaine Bova, Beech street, was honored guest Friday evening, when Miss Dorothy Benson entertained at a surprise birthday party at her home, west Fifth avenue. Eight were present, and the evening was enjoyably spent playing games and music. A delicious luncheon was served, and Miss Bova was presented with lovely gifts from those present.

Yesterday Is Nowhere

Chapter 21

ON THE crest of the hill Stephanie stopped to look at Freya's house. Keen, spicy air breathed deeply gave her a sense of intoxication. She felt strong enough to endure anything. Toward the end of the valley she could see Freya's house nestled among the trees. Every line and contour of that house was in her mind, the slant of its roof, lattice designs on the windows and the way the lilac trees clustered around as if to steal a glance at the old, polished wooden floors, the warm shabbiness of those friendly rooms. She stood a minute to admire the trees then raised her poles, crouched forward then swooped down the hill. It was a continuous run that took her through the open gateway to the bottom of the steps and there, before she reached the foot of the hill, was Freya all laughter and pleased surprise.

"Stephanie! how wonderful to see you!"

Stephanie held a finger warningly across her lips. "Don't let old Margot see me," she said hurriedly.

How like old Freya not to ask questions but to close the door, no less, and point to the library. With averted face Stephanie made a pretense of warming her hands at the fireplace while trying to decide what to tell her. However Freya had her premonitions.

"Has anything happened to Conrad?" she asked so abruptly that Stephanie was startled in surprise.

"Now why should you be worried about Conrad?"

You look so pale . . . and . . . her voice wavered to regain a lighter tone. "He hasn't visited me for days."

"I've felt strangely restless lately as if I was waiting for something to happen. She caught herself staring at the shadows around Stephanie's eyes, at her thin strained features. Suddenly she made an impatient gesture.

"I'm talking nonsense. It's because Ernst will be home in four-or five days and I can't settle to anything."

"You've been so brave, now Ernst will soon be with you and a new life ahead for both of you." Tenderness warmed her voice, then it faded and the room was still again. "Someday you may forgive Franz," Freya played with her fingers. None would ever know what a bitter milestone in her life she passed when Franz refused his help.

"I think I've forgiven him already," she said slowly. "He couldn't have done much but then, fresh from the security of America. It was like having the ground slide out from under my feet when he refused help so decisively. That frightened me more than anything."

A faint wistful smile touched Stephanie's lips as she turned toward the fire. Freya looked at her. In a blinding flash it came over her that she was ill; those blue shadows around her eyes, the fragile transparency of her skin made one think of death. Then she remembered Stephanie hadn't wanted old Margot to see her.

"Something has happened," she said it more as a fact than question, struggling to keep her voice steady. The quick, bird-like look in Stephanie's face immediately set her alert. "What is it?" Stephanie's eyes stared up at her, sick and desperate.

"I don't want to tell you clumsily," she faltered, "it will be a shock." Their eyes met.

"Tell me," said Freya.

"Franz and Paul Von Beck have got Niel Dana under guard in our house. Franz is to go back to Berlin in Niel's place . . . you can guess the rest." Her voice broke.

AROUND Freya's room Stephanie whirled into black vertigo. It can't be, it can't be! But she knew it was true, because it was so possible. A long quietness divided them.

"Wonder you are ill," she breathed.

Stephanie flung up her head. "I'm not ill! I can see this thing-through. I'll get him away before it's too late, if you'll help me."

"How could he do such a thing?" cried Freya. "To bring him to your house, make you and Conrad a part of it."

"That was Von Beck's idea," defended Stephanie. "It is all out of Franz's hands now."

"Von Beck! . . . then Niel isn't safe!"

"No . . . and if anything happens to him you and Ernst are not safe. You might have to leave Germany."

"But Conrad . . ."

"He's trying to save them both but he's being watched. I'm the one to do what has to be done. She smiled bitterly. "They left me out of their calculations." As Freya looked at her she went on: "Niel has figured how to break out, he'll come here to you and as soon as he comes you must phone Glita Neumann to bring her car and drive him to his military police in Munich. She will do it." Freya was speechless.

Outside there was a sound—a shifting of gears, thick tires zipping on hardpacked snow. Stephanie darted to the window.

"It's Von Beck!" They stared at each other.

"Why should he come," said Freya thickly.

"My skin is by the steps." "I'll let him think they are mine." She felt the numb calmness that desperation induces in lieu of emotion. "I'll entertain our devil in the drawing room."

The General stood a little away from the door—it was a habit with him. He took off his hat beaming at her.

"Why General, what a surprise!"

"I do hope not an unwelcome one."

"Come in."

She took his hat and coat then noticed Margot, goggle-eyed at the end of the hall.

"Some schnapps, Margot . . . come in here, General, the fire is lit."

His little marble blue eyes seemed to pigeon hole everything in the room, then he let his monocle fall.
